

5-for-5 Spelling, Punctuation and Grammar

Test Five

1

On the line provided, write the name of the punctuation that could be used instead of the pair of commas in the sentence below.

The door, which has iron hinges, creaked open.

1 mark

2

For each of the sentences in the table below, tick whether the modal verb shows certainty or possibility.

Sentence	Certainty	Possibility
I will be going to the party.
You should bring a gift.
There might be a cake.

1 mark

3

Underline the longest possible noun phrase in the sentence below.

She took the book with the most pages from the shelf.

1 mark

4

Circle all of the adjectives in the sentence below.

Under the watery moon, the owl swooped gracefully into the abandoned barn with a small, trapped mouse in its talons.

2 marks

5

Complete the table below by ticking whether each sentence should end in a question mark or an exclamation mark.

Sentence	?	!
What a loud noise that siren makes
How clever your younger brother is
What beautiful artwork have you done
How happy are you

2 marks

Total out of 7